

Started as a commemorating feature of the 10th year anniversary of Swamy Associates in 2010, this month, SA Times has completed its 50th edition. While starting this newsletter, no one including me, was sure that this would survive more than a year. But to confess, this monthly feature has not only become a habit but an addiction and an integral part of our routine.

Apart from enriching the readers in the complex field indirect taxation on a monthly basis and updating our own knowledge base, SA Times gives us a sense of immense satisfaction and pleasure, that we are giving back something to the community, which provide us our livelihood.

SA Times is nothing but a complete team effort. There has been a sincere contribution from many, including content, collation, editing, and construction till dispatch and uploading. While thanking all the contributors on this golden occasion, I have to profoundly appreciate and thank, Ms.Sindhu Mangat, Advocate, who had been the heart and soul behind this venture from day one and a stand out contributor to SA Times. Though she had been the enthusiastic editor of this newsletter from inception, the most adorable part is that she continues to be the major contributor till date, even after leaving the services of Swamy Associates.

I am sure, with this enthusiastic and avid crew, SA Times would reach more milestones in the years to come, disseminating distilled essence...
